How to use kerio vpn client.

Are you using the Kerio Connect Sync app on the phone or just the email client?My guess is that Kerio is initially configuring his connection for activesync, and then trying to change to CardDAV/CalDAV, which Android does not have native support for. That is odd. I have not seen that before on any Kerio Android instances I have. Do they have any other accounts syncing on their phone? We are not using the Kerio Connect Sync app. It has terrible reviews, should we be using this CrashFF ? It is just setup through the android add accounts and choosing Exchange. I have done some more testing and I see the same issue on my phone. Editing a contact on my phone does not sync the changes. I now wonder if we have a larger problem, but not sure where to even start if ManyHats08 says they dont have this problem? I have a couple of other gmail accounts syncing to my phone, the user just has one personal gmail account that is connected. What version of Kerio are you running? Do you see any active sync errors when the end user or you try to change something? This link might also help: you have verified that the contact setting on the android is set to sync with your Kerio account, correct? (Sometimes it is the smallest things that trip us up)On the Kerio server you have a setting "in case of conflict". Who is the designated winner on that one? the reason the app has gotten such poor reviews is because people didnt read the description on it. It does NOT work for email use. It only works for task, calendar, and contact data. The app does require Kerio 8.5.2 or newer.As an alternative to the Kerio APP, you should be able to use any other CardDAV/CalDAV sync app as well. Spice (1) flagReport Was this post helpful? thumb_up thumb_down Thanks for the replies!We are currently on 9.2.5 patch 3 (3336). I am going to update here before too long.Ya I did check that setting to ensure it is syncing... I assume it is a small setting change that I am missing! I dont see a designated winner setting anywhere, where is that?I installed the kerio app and am playing around with that. Now I have duplicate contacts even if I remove them from the main email syncing. I think I need to remove the account and add just email, and then configure the kerio app. Released: August 9th, 2022 Kerio Connect 9.4.2 is a release with several bug fixes and user experience improvements.
